

Panorama Hills

Calgary, Alberta

Scott Wright developed an open space design document for this established north Calgary community while it was still in its infancy. Genstar Development Company requested a document that would form the basic framework for their landscape architectural controls and provide substantial marketing power.

The document established important design criteria for Panorama's open system such as recreational programming, linear trail connections, signage and way-finding, environmental conservation (Beddington Creek ER System), and community theme development.

Today, Scotts vision can be clearly seen in its entirety on a casual walk or drive through the Panorama area.
